Describe the scope of work in detail. Please include a summary of key deliverables.

The scope of work we've completed with Upcodo over the past two years has been extensive. In addition to rebuilding all of our existing applications from scratch on a modern technology stack, they have also developed several new web applications that have significantly improved our workflow.

In our first phase of collaboration, Upcodo built a certification renewal site and a coaching card game application that our certified professionals can use in their work with emotional intelligence. During the second phase, they began by designing the architecture for a single sign-on system while simultaneously rebuilding our existing assessment platform and events system.

We are currently in the third phase of our partnership. Now that our systems are connected and synchronized, we are migrating the majority of our users from our legacy platforms to the new environment. We look forward to continuing feature development and adding exciting new products for our users in the near future.

The Outcome

What were the measurable outcomes from the project that demonstrate progress or success?

For each project we completed with UpCodo, we began with preliminary internal designs that outlined our vision and core functionality. Once the requirements were communicated, UpCodo efficiently organized the work into achievable milestones and short development sprints.

These projects were large in scope, so this milestone-based approach allowed us to track steady progress, maintain clear visibility into deliverables, and ensure timely completion of each component. By the end of each phase, we had a fully functional MVP that could be tested with users. The feedback gathered from real users informed iterative improvements going forward.

Describe their project management. Did they deliver items on time? How did they respond to your needs?

The UpCodo team has been fantastic to work with. They utilized separate Trello boards for each project, allowing us to clearly organize milestones, track progress, and manage sprints effectively. Their project management approach was structured yet flexible, ensuring that deliverables were met on time and that priorities could be adjusted as our needs evolved.

They are highly responsive to our feedback and proactive in communicating updates. At this phase our collaboration has evolved into an iterative process focused on ongoing improvements and feature enhancements on our many different projects.

What was your primary form of communication with UpCodo Digital?

Virtual Meeting

What did you find most impressive or unique about this company?

What I've found most impressive about UpCodo Digital is their outstanding communication. Throughout our collaboration, I've interacted with team members across all roles, they all take the time to ask thoughtful questions to ensure they fully understand our vision before moving forward. This level of engagement and clarity has made a huge difference in the quality of our systems as a whole.

Are there any areas for improvement or something UpCodo Digital could have done differently?

No input here. Fantastic work!
